Walter Jackson, Frederick,
Charges Three Men With Assault And Battery

ASKED ACCOUNTING OF UNION DUES

Three men, identified by police as an American Federation of Labor organizer, a pamphlet distributor for the union and a local associate, were taken into custody Wednesday for allegedly beating up a local committeeman of the Ox Fibre Brush Company Tuesday night. The AFL has been attempting to organize the Brush company for several weeks but as yet the organization has not been certified, it is understood.

The assault, officers said, resulted when Walter Jackson, the committeeman, asked the organizer for an accounting of money paid into the union as dues.

Jackson, who resides at 315-A Madison street, this city, Wednesday morning obtained warrants charging George Blake, Hagers-town, the union organizer; Charles Taylor, Martinsburg, W. Va., the pamphlet distributor; and Edgar "Ham" Betson, the local associate, with assault and battery. Betson, officers said, joined the union when officials promised to get him a job as a truck driver. He is still unemployed, they added.

Blake and Betson were taken into custody about 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon by Special Investigator Allen S. Bartgis and Sergeant R. O. Six and booked for a hearing in Police Court Wednesday night. The trial, however, was continued until December 1 and the two men were released on bond of $500 each.

Taylor was arrested about 9:30 o'clock Wednesday night by the same officers after a union meeting in a local restaurant on North Market street. He was remanded to jail in default of $500 bond. His trial also was booked for December 1.

Man Brutally Beaten

Officers said Jackson was brutally beaten by the three men on four different occasions Tuesday. The difficulty started between 7 and 8 p. m. when Jackson, police said, asked Blake what happened to the money union members paid as dues. The question had been put to Jackson, as a committeeman, by employees of the brush company.

Jackson, who bore vivid marks of his beating, told the officers, they said, that at his question the men turned on him and threatened to kill him if he said anything about the matter or showed up at a meeting of union officials Wednesday night.

The first assault occurred at the South Market street bridge, the second followed at the Square Corner and a third took place at the corner of Market and Church streets, authorities stated.

Beaten Near Headquarters

Following the attack at Church street, Jackson told officers the men put him in a taxi to send him home. He ordered the cab to stop at Police Headquarters, however, planning to report the attack to officers. Bartgis and Six said. As he alighted from the cab, the officers said, the men caught him, thrust him back into the machine and beat him again before sending him home.

Jackson received medical treatment for a gash over one eye, reportedly inflicted by a blackjack, a discolored eye and a laceration at his collarbone.

Investigator Bartgis and Sergeant Six said Jackson, fearing for his safety, did not go to work on Wednesday morning but at 10 o'clock obtained the warrants for the arrest of the men. Because he was afraid of being attacked again the officers said Jackson was given a police escort to his home after he had secured the warrants and in the afternoon was given another escort to assure his safety in going to work.

GUE WILL PROBATED

Except for a nominal cash bequest to his daughter, Mrs. Mabel E. Brown, the will of Edgar B. Gue, Damascus district farmer, which has been admitted to probate in the Orphans Court at Rockville, leaves his entire estate to his widow, Mrs. Della E. Brown, and names her executrix. The will, executed July 14, 1939, does not give the value of the estate.

THE WEATHER

The weather forecast for Maryland today is:

"Fair and much colder today and tonight preceded by light showers along the coast early this morning. Tomorrow fair and continued cold; fresh north-west winds."

Yesterday's scattered showers didn't help the drought, but were a forerunner of cooler temperatures today.

New Midway Mechanic Victim Of Accident At Garage
Wednesday Night

CENTER OF TOWN WAS THREATENED

One man was fatally burned and the business center of New Midway was threatened with destruction by fire about 6 o'clock Wednesday evening when gasoline fumes became ignited in the basement of the Renner Motor Company.

Arthur C. "Chin" Boone, 34, chief mechanic at the garage died early this morning at the Frederick City Hospital, his body badly burned from the waist to the top of his head.

Three Companies Respond

Timely action by the New Midway Volunteer Firemen prevented destruction of the large building which houses besides the garage, the Renner store, the Rose Jolly manufacturing plant and the fire engine house. The Walkersville engine and two from Union Bridge were called when destruction of the building was feared. Damage was confined to about $300, according to Jesse I. Renner, owner of the garage and automobile sales department.

"The building and perhaps surrounding buildings would probably have been destroyed," Mr. Renner said, "but for the fact that the fire department was immediately available. We called the other companies because we had no hope of saving our building and we wanted to protect other property."

Gasoline In Well

According to Mr. Renner gasoline had been leaking into the well which supplied the garage with water. The well had gone virtually dry, he said, and Boone went into the basement to prime the automatic pump.

When he disconnected a pipe, he said, water, gasoline and fumes were ejected into Boone's face and on his chest. The fumes are thought to have ignited from a nearby furnace.

Shouting for aid and his clothing in flames, Boone ran up a flight of steps and collapsed. Maurice Stover, another employee, tore a sweater from himself and beat out the flames. Ignatius Lambert rushed the injured man to the hospital here.

Building On Fire

Going below, employees found woodwork in flames and summoned firemen. Chemical equipment was brought into use almost immediately, extinguishing the flames before other companies arrived on the scene.

The fact that gasoline was leaking into the well was first determined about two months ago, Mr. Renner said, and it was thought that the leak had been repaired.

Water in the well never fell below six feet from the bottom during the 1930 drought, he said, but this week the supply was practically exhausted. It was in an effort to obtain any water available, that Boone was trying to prime the pump, he explained.

Machine Practically Demolished In Crash Near Lewistown Wednesday Night

Five Thurmont and Lewistown youths escaped with slight injuries when the automobile in which they were riding was forced off Route 15 about 3 miles south of Lewistown about 8 o'clock Wednesday night. The car was practically demolished after going over an embankment and turning over.

State Trooper William M. Houck said the occupants were treated at the scene by a physician and were able to return to their homes. Warren Elgin Carr, 16, Thurmont, was the driver of the car, he reported, and the other occupants were Mary Daviler, Thurmont, Doris Myrtle and Cynthia Barber of Lewistown. The latter had recently undergone a surgical operation and was somewhat shocked, he said.

The machine was forced off the highway by a car driven by Stewart Essor Roberts, this city. Trooper Houck said, Roberts was charged with reckless driving and a hearing was scheduled for next Wednesday night in Police Court here. Roberts was attempting to pass another car, Trooper Houck said, and Carr swung his machine off the highway to prevent a head-on collision.

FIRE DESTROYS CAR

A 1938 Ford sedan, belonging to Paul Smith, Stoney Branch, was completely destroyed by fire Wednesday evening near Miller's bridge. The owner said a radiator hose burst, throwing anti-freeze over the motor. The machine burned before he could get help.

American Attitude To Be Determined By France's Future Action; Hull Confers Again With Japanese

Envoys On Pacific Situation

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—The United States today suspended economic assistance to France's North African colonies, and broadly hinted that diplomatic relations with the Vichy Government might be severed because of increasing Nazi domination of French affairs.

In announcing that "American policy towards France is being reviewed," Secretary of State Hull made it clear that the attitude of the United States would be determined by France's future action toward Hitler's schemes "to take over by force or threat of force the sovereignty and control of the French Empire."

His statement stemmed from the Vichy Government's action in removing General Maxime Weygand as France's pro-consul in North Africa. This step, Hull said, was taken at "the express demand of Hitler" and it was regarded here as conclusive evidence of "collaboration" between France and her Nazi conqueror to the detriment of American interests.

Meets With Japanese

After devoting the morning to the European situation Secretary Hull, disregarding the Thanksgiving holiday, met with Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, the Japanese Ambassador, and Saburo Kurusu, special envoy, in another talk designed to find a peaceful solution of Japanese-American tension in the Pacific.

The Japanese had received new instructions from their foreign office during the night.

After an hour's talk Kurusu smilingly asserted that "we were making a Thanksgiving call."

Asked whether there was anything for which he might be thankful the special envoy skipped into the State Department elevator without a reply.

State Department officials said that today's meeting was at the request of the Japanese for the purpose of elaborating further on some phases of the international situation. The conversations, they added, continued to be exploratory and no decisions were undertaken.

Considered Significant

In view of Hull's frequent reiteration that the situation in the Pacific was not an isolated diplomatic sector but must be considered as closely tied up with Nazi schemes of world-wide conquest the use of the phrase "international" (Continued on Page Thirteen)

Mr. Lewis Suggests East
Street As Thoroughfare
To North Market

Extension of East street along the Pennsylvania Railroad to a point connecting with North Market street was proposed in a letter from R. Rush Lewis to the Mayor and Aldermen of Frederick, it was disclosed at the city officials' regular meeting Wednesday night.

Mr. Lewis, who volunteered to contribute $1,000 to the project upon its completion, said the extended street would provide a thoroughfare from North Market street to East Patrick street and would serve to relieve traffic congestion in the city.

It was pointed out by the city officials that an extension of East street from Eighth street, where it now ends, to North Market street at one time had been discussed by the City Planning Commission. Preliminary surveys also had been made of the proposed extension.

24-Foot Street

Mr. Lewis suggested that a street 24 feet in width be constructed if the rights of way could be obtained without cost. If and when the extension is completed he said he would be glad to contribute $1,000 and added that he believed other persons would contribute additional funds.

Besides providing a through street from North Market to East Patrick, Mr. Lewis said construction of the road would provide employment for local residents.

The board decided to take the proposal under consideration and asked City Engineer W. Raymond Walter to investigate rights of way and to submit an estimate on grading and installing the street.Carillon Schedule

How often the carillon will play, a moot subject of discussion for several weeks, will be investigated by a committee headed by Mayor Lloyd C. Culler, who was suggested as chairman by James H. Gambrill, Jr., chairman of the Baker Memorial Committee. The Mayor was authorized to name other members of his committee which is to report back to the board.

Mayor Culler also stated that the Baker Memorial Committee would like to know if the city would be satisfied if the memorial tower were floodlighted at night. No action was taken.

Repair Cannon Wheels

At the request of the American Legion the officials authorized repairs to the wheels of the cannon in Memorial Park at a cost estimated at $35.

In response to a letter from Herbert Bevard Swope, chairman of the Bill of Rights Sequi-centennial Committee, the city fathers decided to observe Bill of Rights Day on December 15. An appropriate proclamation will be made.

The Water Department was authorized to install a six-inch fire hydrant on the east side of Wisner street at the gate of the Ox Fibre Brush Company. The hydrant was requested by the company as a safety measure.

City Engineer Walter was authorized to erect "no parking at any time" signs on the south side of East Church street from the main gate of the Ox Fibre Brush Company east to the trolley tracks.

CITY OBSERVES
THANKSGIVING

Church Service, Dinners
And Entertainment Marked Day's Program

Early summer weather marred only by occasional showers Thursday added an extra glow to the feeling of appreciation of comfort and plenty which countenances felt Thursday as they observed Thanksgiving Day. Temperatures, which hovered in the low 70s broke all records for the holiday here; the weather bureau reported.

A large attendance at the union services in the Presbyterian church in the morning, the biggest crowd to witness a football game in Baker Park this season, and increased traffic movements throughout the county, were reported as countenances took advantage of the Indian summer weather.

The day was the third and last "early Thanksgiving," which was begun by the President's revision of the date of the holiday in 1939. The entire country will revert to the last Thursday of the month in 1942.

Traditional Dinners

Celebration of the holiday here was marked by the traditional turkey dinners in homes and institutions, and by the special services in the Presbyterian Church at which Dr. Benjamin W. Meeks, pastor of the Calvary Methodist Church, told his audience that Thanksgiving Day affords this nation "a unique opportunity to bear witness to its faith in God and its recognition of His guidance and preservation."

"This nation was founded on religious faith and conviction and its future permanence and stability rests upon maintenance of a vital faith in God, a faith that must find expression in the highest ethics and morality," he said.

"We must not suspend for this emergency the laws of absolute truth and morality and absolute justice, and our hope for ultimate victory over our enemies must lie in the hope of morality," Dr. Meeks warned.

Churches participating in the annual service were the Presbyterian, Calvary Methodist, Trinity Methodist, United Brethren and the Church of the Brethren.

Less Fortunate Remembered

Several scores of Frederick's less fortunate enjoyed turkey dinners Thursday at Montevue and the County Jail, while vagrants and transients were afforded a meal at the Salvation Army headquarters. Though the movement of traffic, which began to increase Wednesday night, was steady during the day, no serious accidents were reported in the City or County. Police also reported a scarcity of the drunkenness cases which usually mark a holiday.

Hotel registers showed an unusually large number of tourists Wednesday and Thursday, many of whom observed the holiday here. At the movie-houses, managers said the ticket windows were rushed in the early evening after entertainment-seekers had digested their turkey and trimmings, and at midnight shows Wednesday.

Low temperature for the day was 36 degrees. The Chicago division of the weather bureau, suffering under chilly temperatures and snow flurries, predicted an end to the mild weather enjoyed in the East, with sharp temperature drops expected in the next few days.

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—A report that an undisclosed number of troops had left for Pennsylvania coal fields came from reliable sources at Camp Forrest, Tenn., tonight as word of new shootings in the captive mines dispute and the spread of sympathy walkouts in commercial pits reached the capital.

At the War Department, officers on duty insisted they knew of no order from here for troops to go to the pit heads.

The Camp Forrest sources said the troops were traveling by truck and motorized units, with the first stop expected at Pittsburgh.

Earlier, a defense spokesman had said that "the government will not give in, but it doesn't want to use troops."

This was followed by hints from other defense officials that legislation would be offered shortly for government seizure of the closed workings.

Governmental Action

The conviction grew that President Roosevelt might soon give Congress the go-signal—probably next week—on a measure authorizing Federal operation of the mines and providing for use of injunctions against labor leaders or pickets interfering with production.

William H. Davis, chairman of the disrupted National Defense Mediation Board, was mentioned as having a hand in drafting of the projected legislation. It was the board's 9 to 2 adverse recommendation on the "union shop" demand of the United Mine Workers that precipitated the new strike of 53,000 miners in captive pits and nearly twice as many more in supporting walkouts in commercial mines.

Under the "union shop" system (which President Roosevelt calls a closed shop) all miners in captive mines would have to become UMW members within a stated period after getting their jobs. Such a system already prevails in commercial mines. The captive mines (Continued on Page Three)

FOOD SHIPMENTS TO THE BRITISH

Nearly Two Billion Pounds
Of Commodities Turned Over By U. S.

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—A sharp upturn in shipments of food and other agricultural products to England was disclosed today as officials made public the first breakdown of supplies actually sent.

The Department of Agriculture announced that 1,650,000,000 pounds of agricultural commodities had been turned over to British officials for shipment in the five-month period from April 29 to October 1. They said the products cost $200,000,000.

Shortly before, Roy F. Hendrickson, administrator of the surplus marketing administration, disclosed that the $500,000,000 mark in lend-lease expenditures for farm products had been passed this week.

U. S. Making Deliveries

Hendrickson's statement indicated that $300,000,000 for British supplies had been spent in the past six weeks, compared with $200,000,000 in the five months prior to October 1. He said that the increased buying program would continue with expenditure of another $500,000,000 by the end of February. Thus, by that date, the government will have spent two-thirds of the $1,500,000,000 provided by Congress for purchase of farm products under the lend-lease acts.

Department spokesmen said a detailed report on purchases of agricultural products for October would be made public after December 1. The lag apparently was intended to allow shipments to arrive in England and avoid disclosure of strategic information.

Hendrickson, head of the agency conducting the vast purchase program, said that foods "which left our docks before October 1" included 10,600 carloads of dairy and poultry products; almost 5,000 carloads of pork; nearly 5,500 carloads of dried and canned fruits and vegetables; more than 2,900 carloads of fats, mainly lard; almost 1,600 carloads of grains and cereals; more than 5,100 carloads of non-foodstuffs, principally cotton and tobacco, and several hundred carloads of miscellaneous foods.

By The Associated Press

Tokyo, Nov. 20.—The Japanese Foreign Office charged Panama today with an unfriendly attitude and presented firmly worded diplomatic demands for better treatment of Japanese nationals there. Specifically, the foreign office renewed strong protests against the recent action of the Government of Panama preventing Japanese residents from continuing in or engaging in business there.

(Japan's original protest was rejected November 7 by the Panama Government which termed it "couched in strong, even insulting terms.")

The Japanese said they were protesting for all Asiatic races.

Announcement of the protest said Panama had rejected demands for payment of indemnity for business property Japanese subjects lost under the law and showed an unwillingness to reach any amicable settlement.

Racial Discrimination

It said Panama did not give Japanese time to dispose of their stocks and turned down their applications to continue temporarily in business until they could wind up their affairs.

The Japanese declared Panama's action "racial discrimination" and "inhuman" in that it took away the means of livelihood from Japanese who had entered Panama legally.

The Japanese press continued to look to the Washington conferences between Tokyo's representatives and Secretary of State Cordell Hull for the answer to issues which Yomiuri summed up as "the key to Pacific war or peace."

Illustrating the effect of wartime conditions, Shinsuke Kishi, Minister of Commerce and Industry, told a Diet committee that Japan's export industries soon will be operating at only about 30 percent of normal capacity.

Gallagher guided Custer on a number of forays through the West and named a son after the famous commander of the Seventh U. S. Cavalry.

McCollum said the only reason he did not perish at Little Big Horn was that he was in the rear driving an ammunition wagon. When he came up the massacre was over, the Indians withdrawn.

The center of the Imperial British offensive into Libya has beaten forward 80 miles within Axis territory to within 10 miles of the outer defenses of the long besieged British garrison of Tobruk, the Middle-Eastern command announced last night, and it thus appeared that large bodies of German and Italian troops were in imminent peril of encirclement.

This advance of the central forces, said the communique of the British command, has overrun and captured the town of Rezegh on the plateau just to the Southeast of Tobruk itself. Quick relief for that city was in sight. But, more important, the British apparently were about to drive a line from Sidi Omar, one of the jumping-off points for their offensive, clear to the Mediterranean—Tobruk being on its shores—and thus split the rear and forward Axis armies.

OPM DENOUNCED

AT CIO MEETING

Defense Body Is Criticised
For Refusing Defense
Housing Contract

Detroit, Nov. 20 (AP)—The CIO denounced the OPM "and its responsible officials" today on grounds that they denied a defense housing contract to a firm employing CIO workers.

A resolution to that effect was adopted at the CIO's annual convention, but it made no specific mention of Associate OPM Director Sidney Hillman despite the demands of A. D. Lewis and his adherents for a statement condemning Hillman for the part they attributed to him in the Detroit housing controversy.

Lewis is a brother of John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers Union, who long has been at odds with Hillman, president-on-leave of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union. Thus the question of what action the conclave should take became one of the prime issues before the delegates.

With pressure exerted by followers of both men, the resolutions committee brought forth what many members regarded as a compromise pronouncement.

First Negative Votes
The resolution was approved with a chorus of "ayes" and a scattering of "noes"—the first negative votes of the annual gathering. Chairman Thomas Kennedy of the resolutions committee, secretary treasurer of the United Mine Workers, precluded any floor fight by asserting that the statement "meets all issues" and opining that "no good can be accomplished" by debate. The resolution stood forth:

"This convention denounces the OPM and its responsible officials for their reprehensible and extralegal act in denying to the Carrier Lumber Company the award of a contract for 300 defense houses in Wayne County, Michigan."

Turned Down Because Of CIO
It declared that the Carrier concern was the low bidder and that the sole reason it failed to win the award was that the firm had a collective bargaining agreement with the United Construction Workers Organization Committee, headed by A. D. Lewis, and his sympathizers have maintained that Hillman recommended against awarding the housing contract to the Carrier Company.

After the vote was taken, two fist fights occurred back of a row of bleachers at one side of the hall, but the brief flurries failed to interrupt convention proceedings. None of the combatants was identified.

Earlier, the delegates approved a resolution stating that "in this grave crisis mediation and peaceful solution of our industrial disputes is of the utmost importance" and that the CIO would utilize the mediation facilities of the government "to the utmost degree" in (Continued on Page Thirteen)

GENERAL MAY SUCCEED

United States Ambassador Under-

Relieved Of Position

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—Major General James H. Burns, lend-lease executive, was reported in diplomatic circles today to be a likely choice by President Roosevelt for the post of Ambassador to Russia.

Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt, the present envoy who is en route home by plane, is understood to have asked to be relieved after more than two years in Moscow.

General Burns, a regular Army officer and a member of the recent official mission to Moscow, is a specialist in the production of munitions. His appointment to the Moscow embassy thus would give the United States an ambassador with technical knowledge on problems to supply the Soviet armies with munitions.

An ordnance officer most of his Army career, Burns was graduated from the Military Academy in 1908. He received the Distinguished Service Medal for his services in heading up the production of power and shells for the A. E. F. and the Allies during the World War. Burns has never held a political office.

JAPANESE DIET MEMBER QUILTS

Speech Delivered By Official Is Banned By Authorities

Tokyo, Nov. 20. (AP)—A Diet member's speech which was banned for publication but declared "improper for this session" led Wednesday to the member's resignation and created a sensation in the extraordinary session of Japan's Parliament.

No hint of the speech's contents was permitted to reach the public, but the member, named Miyazawa, was turned over to the disciplinary committee of the House of Representatives and his resignation shortly thereafter was accepted by a unanimous vote of the House.

However, 19 other members resigned from the "Throne rule assistance group" of the House, apparently in sympathy with Miyazawa.

(Parts of this dispatch apparently were delayed or deleted, perhaps by censor, leaving the meaning of the incident obscure. It was left to conjecture whether Miyazawa had criticized the government's foreign policy or violated some points of the accepted code of parliamentary conduct. All published speeches in the current Diet session have strongly approved the government's militant stand against the United States and Britain and for the Axis.)

The Washington mission of special envoy Saburo Kurusu continued to overshadow other world developments in Japanese eyes, with the press giving great prominence to detailed accounts of yesterday's meeting of nearly three hours between Kurusu and Ambassador Nomura and Secretary Hull.

The possibility was discussed that Premier General Hideki Tojo or Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo might make a further statement to the Diet, if Washington developments justified it, before the session's end, now set for tomorrow.

The Orphans Court has authorized the executor of the estate of the late Mrs. Helen Abell Baughman, prominent resident of the county, to sell certain securities in order to pay the federal estate tax, which amounts to $30,571.65.

The executor said it was necessary to sell additional securities in order to raise cash, with money now in hand sufficient to pay the federal estate tax. The Orphans Court gave it permission to sell $15,200 Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation three per cent bonds due in 1949.

MINISTER TALKS TO ROTARIANS

Rev. S. S. Johnston Traces Early Observance Of Thanksgiving

The Rotarians heard a Thanksgiving message delivered by Rev. Samuel S. Johnston, rector of All Saints Church, at their weekly luncheon-meeting in the Francis Scott Key Hotel Wednesday.

Rev. Mr. Johnston traced the history of Thanksgiving and outlined some of the things for which Americans can be thankful for this year.

The popular idea of the origin of the holiday, he told the Rotarians, goes back to Colonial days in Massachusetts, but actually it reaches back into the early history of man when men first realized they depended not entirely upon themselves, but upon a higher power.

Thanksgiving feasts for the fruits of the soil have been general throughout history. Rev. Mr. Johnston said, they have also been observed for other reasons, especially in England where a day was set apart to commemorate the sinking of the Spanish Armada, and another, later, to celebrate the foiling of a plot to blow up the king and parliament.

Traces History Of Observance

In the United States it was the custom for ministers to preach political sermons on Thanksgiving Day, the speaker related, and the Congregationalist ministers of Massachusetts generally disliked Thomas Jefferson and delivered fiery attacks upon him. They also read the Governor's Thanksgiving proclamation. One year the governor, who was a warm admirer of Jefferson, wrote his proclamation at such length that it took two hours to read it, and the congregations had left the church by the time the ministers got to their discussion of Jefferson.

The first national Thanksgiving proclamation was made by Abraham Lincoln in the autumn of 1863 when the nation was divided, the North at war with the South. He found a great deal to be thankful for, and there are many things to be thankful for today, the speaker asserted.

"We have plenty to eat, and plenty to wear," he said, "and freedom to think and say what we want to and to go wherever we want to. And we have those who love us to be thankful for." The speaker was introduced by Charles McC. Mathias, chairman of the program committee.

Guests included J. D. Bigger and Thomas Sappington, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Rev. Dr. B. W. Meeks, president of the club, presided at the meeting.

PARKWAY P. T. A.

The Parkway Parent-Teachers Association held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday November 18, with the president, George L. Douglas in charge.

The large audience enjoyed the Thanksgiving program presented by the fourth and fifth grades. The program was as follows:

A playlet, "Jim's Wealth" by Mrs. Helen Hemp's class; Thanksgiving songs and a playlet, "The Boy Who Wasn't Thankful" by Miss Mary Eizler's class.

An interesting feature of the program was a series of answers given by the teachers in response to questions asked by the parents.

A MERRY AMERICAN CHRISTMAS!

Christmas IN AMERICA means more than ever this year. Let's show that we're well aware of our good fortune.

Let's do all we can to spread cheer and friendliness, in the old fashioned American way. There's the grand gift-giving tradition that none of us is going to forget.

For whether a gift costs a child the pennies in its bank or is fabulously priced, it can bring joy just as long as the spirit of Christmas is shared by giver and recipient.

Christmas in America! It's full worth is only emphasized to us by the sadness in place of cheer which this Christmas will bring to millions of hope-grasping men, women and children in war-ridden lands. Perhaps the most gratifying way to celebrate Christmas is by bring a measure of pleasure unexpectedly into the life of someone away from home. A soldier from a nearby army camp—a sailor on shore leave. Let our brilliantly lit up Christmas trees... the candles in our windows... say "welcome" and invite these boys in for Christmas dinner and a chat around the fireplace. In giving them the heart warming satisfaction of Christmas "at home"—even though their own homes are many miles away, our own yuletide will glow with added brightness. To all the men making our nation's defenses invulnerable—and to you, our neighbors, we say "A Merry American Christmas," from the bottom of our heart!

NEW BATTLESHIP TO BE LAUNCHED

35,000-Ton Indiana Christened Six Months Ahead Of Schedule

Newport News, Va., Nov. 20 (AP)—The 35,000-ton battleship Indiana, the first capital ship to be launched in Virginia waters in 20 years, will be christened six months ahead of schedule, at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company tomorrow.

Secretary of Navy Frank Knox, Governor Henry F. Schricker of Indiana, heading a train load of Hoosiers, Governor James H. Price of Virginia and a dozen or more Congressmen will be among those on hand for the launching at high tide—10:53 a. m.—in the James River.

The $70,000,000 vessel, the third United States dreadnaught to come from the building ways this year, will be christened by Mrs. Lewis C. Robbins of Wichita Falls, Texas, daughter of the Indiana Governor.

Is Heavily Armed
Armed with nine 16-inch guns, mounted in three turrets, and the latest type anti-aircraft and secondary broadside guns, the 680-foot Indiana will have a speed in excess of 27 knots and when commissioned next year will carry a complement of about 75 officers and 1,000 men.

She will come from the ways of the same yard that built the 31,800-ton West Virginia, the last battleship constructed in Virginia and launched here November 19, 1921.

The North Carolina and the Washington, of a slightly different class, were commissioned this year. The South Dakota and the Massachusetts, another pair of 35,000-tonners, are in the finishing stages after being launched in June and September, respectively. The fourth vessel of the Indiana class, the Alabama, will be launched at the Norfolk Navy Yard, Portsmouth, Va., in February.

Third To Bear Name
The Indiana, coming from the ways just two years and a day from the date her keel was laid, November 20, 1939, will be the third of the name. The first Indiana, launched February 28, 1895, at Philadelphia, took part in the battle of Santiago Bay and during the World War was used in training personnel and for patrol duty. In 1920 she was used as a target in experiments with aerial bombs and underwater explosives and was sunk November 1 of that year.

The second Indiana, of 43,200 tons displacement, was authorized in 1916-17 and her building was allocated to the New York Navy Yard in 1918. Her keel was laid November 1, 1920 but her plates never touched salt water. Under terms of the Washington treaty for limitations of naval armament, she was scrapped and sold March 19, 1924, when 34.7 per cent, completed.

ARMY REPORTED SENDING TROOPS are owned by steel companies, which use the fuel, while commercial mines market their output through regular commercial channels.

Aware Of Plans
An Office of Production Management source said OPM's Labor Division was aware of the legislative plans, although its head, Sidney Hillman, has given no indication of reversing his hitherto firm stand against any form of strike-repressive law.

Some Administration leaders were said to feel that legislation should be restricted solely to the coal crisis and should not give blanket authority for similar action against other industries. It probably will not be presented until after the CIO convention in Detroit, which closes Saturday, and until Congressmen return to Washington from Thanksgiving holiday week-ends at home.

Meanwhile gunfire rattled in Fayette County, Pa., where three men fell slightly wounded in a picket-line affray, raising the total of the week's strike casualties to five.

More Sympathy Walkouts
Pennsylvania reported new sympathy walkouts in commercial mines and there were predictions that every mine in that State would be shut down by tomorrow night. New closures raised the total of idle men in Western Pennsylvania alone to between 55,000 and 58,000. It was estimated, with commercial mine strikers outnumbering those in captive workings.

The convention of the Congress of Industrial Organizations in Detroit gave notice in a resolution that it would oppose any measures which would deprive labor organizations of the right to strike and that it expected "even greater" restrictive measures in the future than have so far been offered and beaten down. The delegates affirmed their resolve, however, to "do all in their power" to cooperate with government and industry in defense production, and to utilize to the utmost the government's mediation facilities.

Lewis Rebuffs Roosevelt
Holiday calm prevailed at headquarters of the UMW, where President John L. Lewis last night gave a blunt, personal "no" to two alternative peace proposals advanced by Mr. Roosevelt. The Chief Executive suggested a moratorium, for duration of the emergency, on the UMW's union shop demand, or submission of the case to arbitration.

Detained

A man identifying himself as Dr. Arthur Torrance, above, explorer-physician of New York, was detained by Monterrey, Mex., police in connection with the death of wealthy Mrs. Ada Torrance of Kalamazoo, Mich., his 72-year-old bride of three weeks.

Lewis made it clear that final action must come from the union's 200-man policy committee at its meeting tomorrow, but there was not the slightest hope in official quarters that the committee would fail to follow Lewis' lead. The shaggy UMW chief said union leaders could not take less than the union shop, because of instructions from the membership, and rejected arbitration on the ground that Mr. Roosevelt's recent utterances have been "so prejudicial" to the miner's case that it might be impossible to find an impartial arbitrator.

No Hope Of Acceptance
Opinion was strong in the capital that the President's proposals were made without substantial hope of their acceptance, but they appeared to have served the purpose of exhausting all possible means of negotiated settlement and to have cleared the stage for Federal intervention.

The broad plan reportedly under consideration, it was suggested, calls for Congress to authorize federal operation of the mines, and to provide for the use of injunctions against persons instigating the stoppage of coal mining or barring miners from the pits by picket lines.

The mines would be taken over without military assistance, it was said, and workers would be urged strongly to return to the pits under some sort of "union maintenance" plan designed to guarantee the union against disruption. The reopening of the mines would then become a matter of rehiring employees, it was said, with full assurance given that the union's representation in the pits would not diminish or be "raided" by rival unions. It was conceded the plan would have to be presented "diplomatically" to the UMW rank and file.

BRITISH DRIVE INTO LIBYA IN OFFENSIVE

Capuzzo and Halfaya (Helfrey) Pass.

German claims during the day to have thrown back strong British forces West of Sidi Omar on Sir Alan's center were waved away in London as of no consequence even if true.

Berlin Jeers
Aside from jeering that this was not the second front that the Russians had wanted because it was not in Europe, Berlin showed a disposition during the day to deprecate the Libyan action.

The Italians for their part did not deny the 50-mile penetration claimed by the British on the first day of their operations, but insisted that it was not really an advance but only a forward march to make contact with the Axis forces.

At the same time the Italians reported that "overwhelming" British forces were assaulting their last surviving positions of consequence in Mussolini's now tattered African empire—those in the Gondar region of Ethiopia.

Before the House of Commons in London, Prime Minister Churchill made it plain that the British were striking for the utter destruction of Rommel's forces, and declared that the action to come was "like a clash of fleets and flotillas, and as in a sea battle all may be settled one way or another in the course of a few hours."

Reds Falling Back
In the now overshadowed war on the Russian front the German High Command claimed in general terms that operations "continue successfully." Otherwise there was little from Berlin during the day save reports of routine actions on the Moscow and Leningrad fronts and a claim that the Russians were attempting to evacuate their troops from Leningrad in transport planes. Six such craft were declared shot down.

Russian information of last night, however, was that the Red line some 65 miles above Moscow about Volokolamsk was falling back under one of a series of fierce new German offensives.

14-YEAR SCULPTURE JOB IS COMPLETED

Rapid City, S. D., Nov. 20 (AP)—Fourteen years after the first granite was blasted from Mount Rushmore's face, Superintendent Lincoln Borglum today formally announced completion of final work on the memorial's great sculptured heads.

The last of $336,000 the Federal Government appropriated for carving the huge images of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt from the mountain has been expended, Borglum said, and the last workman of the crews that began work in 1927 has been laid off.

All but the finishing touches of the memorial were the work of the late Sculptor Gutzon Borglum. To Lincoln Borglum, who had been his father's chief assistant, went the final polishing when the master sculptor died last March. The youth superintendent said he hoped Congress would eventually appropriate funds for completion of a Hall of Records his father started to carve in the granite behind the huge figures and for a stone stairway from the studio at the base of the 500-foot cliff to the top of the heads.

Increasing thousands of tourists yearly have watched progress at the memorial on the Presidents' heads, carved in dimension of men 465 feet in height. The heads, geologists have estimated, will wear away less than a sixteenth of an inch each hundred years.

CHRISTMAS CLUB SAVINGS

There are indications that the savings plans operated under the name of "Christmas clubs" will turn over to their depositors more money this year than ever before. It will be with a feeling of happiness that very many families receive the cash or check that represents their thrift efforts for a year. Probably some of them have rarely had at any one time an equal sum of money in their hands. It has taken some of these people considerable self control to set aside this money each week. They could always see something for which they would like to spend the week's installment. They had sensibly reached the conclusion that if they were ever to obtain the best satisfactions in life, they needed better equipment for their households or various cherished objectives. Many of them saved money for generous presents, or to start permanent accounts in banks. They all have learned the valuable lesson in the art of thrift, to the effect that if people have regular earnings, they can usually save money.

TRAINING IN FIRST AID

One important feature of the American Red Cross program for the coming year, is a nation-wide plan for training in first aid. It is expected that more than 1,000,000 people will take these courses. In those portions of the country which might be attacked in case of war, it seems absolutely necessary that a large body of people should acquire skill in this line. If a city was bombed the way European towns have been, many scores of wounded would be suffering in streets and ruined buildings, and there would be the most urgent need for practical people who would know what to do until the doctor comes. Everywhere such information and practice are highly useful, in automobile accidents and the disasters and mishaps that are constantly occurring.

Twenty-Five And Five Years Ago Today In Frederick

Twenty Five Years Ago
The two old-line parties, Democratic and Republican, spent $2,847.86 in the presidential campaign in Frederick county, according to statements filed by the treasurers of the county central committees yesterday.

Out of the storm of protests and indignation meetings against the high cost of living, there has developed a national campaign against the cold-storage kings who are charged with hoarding up the supply of eggs, meats and other foods.

Robert G. Tinswell, instructor at the University of Pennsylvania and special investigator of the Interstate Milk Commission, spent two days in this county investigating conditions relative to the cost of producing milk.

Five Years Ago
Riots on Kew-Forest in Myerstown recently have caused such a feeling of unrest among citizens of that town that apprehension is felt as to how long the nocturnal visits will continue and how much loss will result before the thievery is checked.

Two Frederick Masons A. LeRoy McCordell and Arthur H. Doll, were honored by election to State offices Wednesday at the annual communication of the Grand Lodge of Maryland in the Masonic Temple in Baltimore.

A one-man State Industrial Accident Commission sat in hearings at the court house here in which six cases were listed for review. Omar D. Crothers was the sole member of the Commission here. It was recently increased by the Governor to five members.

HOLLYWOOD

BY ROBERT WEBB
Academy Award-winning assistant director, guest-columnist today for vacationing Paul Harrison
Hollywood, Nov. 20.—There are lots of ways of becoming a villain, but as a short cut, I'd suggest becoming an assistant director. Now there's a real heavy. He's the dirty dog who makes the movie stars get out of bed at 4 o'clock on a cold winter morning and drive 60 miles to location. He's the meanie who won't let the troupe go to lunch until they are so hungry they could eat their own closets. He's the All Right, Let's Get Going, What's Holding Us Up, Keep Moving guy.
I'm probably the only man at 20th Century-Fox who would think of telling Claudette Colbert to please step on it. She's the star of "Remember the Day," which we're now making, but I'm the star of Remember the Budget and Remember the Schedule. Fortunately, Miss Colbert is understanding and co-operative.

Minutes Are Money

An assistant director must be a little bit on the firm side. I spoke of keeping a company past lunch time, and I did that the other day—until 1:30—and there wasn't a squawk. Everybody on the set—Miss Colbert, John Payne, the camera crew, the 350 extras and all the grips, carpenters and the rest knew that if we could make the switch from the school interior to the farmhouse exterior scenes during lunch, it would save me an hour's shooting time. Time's money in this business more than it is in most, and they understood and appreciated my problem.
It's a funny thing, being called an assistant director. We're more executives than anything creative. It's only once in a dog's age that an assistant director ever gets a chance to direct. Mostly, writers and film cutters are promoted to those spots.
This is how my job works: Somebody writes a script. It's given to me and I give it the breakdown process, working with the unit manager. Then we tell the front office how long it will take to make, what sets, what costumes, how many players and how much it will cost. Then they tell us we can't have that much money or time. Well, we've allowed some leeway but not that much, so we beat our brains out cutting corners until—well, not until everybody's satisfied, but until everybody's so exhausted it all ends in a draw.

Once we're under way we keep going. One morning, Tyrone Power got a leg barked up in "A Yank in the R. A. F." We switched to scenes with Betty Grable with not more than 10 minutes delay. A typical California "high fog" drifted in and got so low we couldn't get our umbrellas up under it. I hustled everybody onto Stage 5, having called Reginald Gardiner and John Loder to the studio immediately after Power's accident. "Just in case." The report at the end of the day showed a time loss of only 25 minutes, but did I catch it!

Too Much Squawk

An assistant director isn't always the smartest gent on the premises. When we were making "Jesse James" at Pineville, Mo., the squawking of guinea hens interfered with recording.
Finally, I bought them from the farmer at $1.50 apiece and had a man take them to the butcher shop in town where he got 25 cents each for them. But the next morning when we started work, we had the same trouble all over. The farmer had bought back the fowls at 35 cents. I bought them all over again, but this time I personally took them to a cafe. That night the company had a guinea hen dinner.

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. If you make several local telephone calls on the room telephone of a friend at a hotel, should you pay him for the calls?
2. If you want friends who live in a city where you are stopping overnight to feel they need not ask you to stay with them, should you telephone before or after registering at a hotel?
3. Should a maid be taught to say, "Dinner is ready" or "Dinner is served"?
4. When writing a thank-you note for a gift is it best to mention the gift by name?
5. If you receive a gift, mailed directly from the store at which it was purchased, and it is broken or damaged in any way, is it all right to notify the store?
- What would you do if—
You stop at a hospital to see a friend and are not sure if he is well enough for visitors—
(a) Ask the nurse at the desk if he can see visitors and if so how long you can stay?
(b) Find out his room number and go right in without making any inquiries?

Today In Washington

Veteran Labor Union Leader Reaching For Power Of Monopoly Based On Administration's Own Policy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, NOV. 20.—Sometimes President Roosevelt likes to let situations simmer. It is easy enough to grow emotional and begin calling names. It is harder to restrain oneself and take a long look ahead with the calm deliberation that produces a public policy instead of a petty quarrel.

MR. LEWIS CANNOT WIN against the government of the United States. He has been defeated by the government before. But Mr. Roosevelt is not going to use troops and physical force to persuade Mr. Lewis. He is going to use the majesty of the law itself which in a national emergency must protect the public interest.

THE PUBLIC INTEREST today is against interruption of the national defense program. Where a dispute occurs and a governmental agency has issued its opinion as to which is right or wrong, it doesn't matter in ordinary times if such a ruling is ignored unless, of course, there is a penalty attached. This week, on the other hand, since mediation has been carried on and a judgment rendered, the public interest requires that the ruling be obeyed.

CONGRESS IS CONSIDERING legislation to terminate strikes on defense work. It probably was a mistake in the first place for the President to assume that honeyed words or eloquent pleas would move the labor bosses who have become dictators with the aid of the Wagner law. Whatever may be the consequences of an economic conflict in normal times when protracted strikes have disastrous results, the fact is that strikes cannot be tolerated today. The American people want them stopped and the Congress, as the elected representative of the people, has the power to put a stop to them.

TODAY THE PRESIDENT, who has tolerated the collectivist theory, is face to face with its implications and he can hardly wax irritable or lose his temper over a system that has been building up for many years with the friendly and sympathetic support of his own party in Congress. Likewise, from the beginning of the present war era the President or his cabinet officers have repeatedly said that everybody else must make sacrifices but "labor's social gains" must not be lost. This is a doctrine of "labor as usual" which conflicts with "business as usual" in time of war.

There is, moreover, a tendency in government to make management the scapegoat on everything. But industrial production depends on both labor and management. Union labor today is slow to realize that it must make concessions and that the right to strike in war time is really a right of rebellion. This is a sacred right, to be sure, but it is exercised only if the government in power is tyrannical or wrongly directed. Labor, on the other hand, professes to be anxious to beat Hitler and prevent Hitlerism, so its sincerity is open to question if

Effects of the aircraft industry's expanding facilities became evident last month when the OPM announced that August production reached an all-time high with a total of 1,854 military aircraft.

Interpreting The Latest War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

British Empire armies again are on the march in North Africa, smashing with tremendously increased power at German-Italian foes on a wide desert front.

For the first time in this war they are on an even footing with the enemy in manpower and modern battle equipment on land and in the air. With the British Navy dominating the Mediterranean, the odds are heavily with the attackers. This fact foreshadows a British victory that could crack the Axis front irreparably—unless colonial France enlists in the struggle as an Axis ally.

French armies in Africa, which went down to defeat with the collapse of France without having fired a shot, and French warships, idle but ominous in French African ports, could alter the odds against Britain in Libya and the Mediterranean if thrown again into the conflict.

Demanding By Hitler

Clarification of the now confirmed retirement of General Maxime Weygand as French commander in Africa is essential to accurate assessment of possibilities of the British North African offensive. Reports to the State Department at Washington say that Hitler expressly demanded the ouster of Weygand.

France is again at a crossroads of fateful import. With his armies fully occupied in Russia and no important segment of his overstrained air power available to bolster his tottering Italian ally in Libya, Hitler has no reserves to throw into action on that front unless colonial France can be dragged to his aid. That is the only logical explanation of the Weygand ouster.

Prime Minister Churchill's warning to Parliament that it is too early for chortling over initial British successes in Libya is well founded. It will continue to be too early until the role of what remains of the once mighty French Mediterranean fleet and of the unpredictable French Army in Africa is disclosed.

Aimed At Annihilation

Yet there was an even more significant statement in the Churchill announcement. It was his assertion that the Libyan drive had been long planned and well prepared and was aimed not at territorial gains to relieve the threat to Egypt, but at annihilation of Axis armies in Africa.

Unquestionably the Libyan border with French Tunisia, perilously close to Sicily, is the ultimate British objective this time. Major British forces under General Weygand swept Italy's Army back half way to that goal last time but were unable to go all the way. Their halt paved the way for subsequent British disaster.

The new British offensive is more than a diversion in force to aid hard-fighting Russian allies. And its timing, while Nazi legions in the Donets-Don Basin and in the Eastern Crimea are groping in bloody forays for an entry into the Caucasus to reach Russian oil fields, raises another implication.

Confident Of Russians

Britain's war leaders must be convinced of Russian ability to hold the Caucasus door. Otherwise it seems utterly improbable they would have risked major action in North Africa.

Caucasus oil is the most vitally important element at stake in the East. Without it Hitler's vast war machine must one day run dry and stall completely. With that oil it could carry on for years.

Behind Russian armies mustered along the Don gateway and now admittedly thrown back across the Kerch strait passageway from the Crimea to the Caucasus stand British forces deployed from India to the flaming new battle zone in Libya. That they had now taken the offensive Westward from Egypt is definite indication that British strategists do not believe the peril great or imminent in the Caucasus.

IN NEW YORK

By GEORGE TUCKER

New York, Nov. 20.—Congratulations Dept.: I see where Dick Kuhn's orchestra has become "The biggest little band in America" . . . I don't know whether you know it or not, but it is almost impossible for small bands to gain real recognition. The major networks are afraid of them. They can't take a chance on presenting small outfits. The nation is used to big bands, with accent on brass. The recording companies have to follow the sign of the dollar mark, and that's with the name organizations.

But people from Texas, and people from Maine and Oregon and everywhere have been asking about Dick Kuhn. Against its will, WOR gave him a chance, and now WOR is delighted . . . One day Decca asked him to make some recordings. For an unbiased opinion, suppose you play "The Window Washer Man" and make up your own mind. Also listen to "Bill Bailey, Won't You Please Come Home."

I think maybe I'd like to tell you a little something about Dick Kuhn. This is his fifth year in the business. He has just five men. It's a small, tightly-knit organization, but no band in America has so well-rounded a repertoire. In his library are 6,000 tunes. He can play 1,500 of these two minutes after request.

Kuhn feels justly grateful to Bob Christenberry, manager of the Hotel Astor, who has given him a showcase on Broadway for the last four years. This is the Broadway Cocktail Lounge on the Astor's mezz. It is a delightful spot for a number of reasons. For instance, you can talk above the music—it doesn't blast your ears. Only, you don't want to talk too much after you hear his arrangements. Instead, you'd rather dance, or just sit and listen and think up numbers to ask him to play.

These five musicians really "work at it." They study composition. They study voice. They study arranging, they haunt musical libraries.

Take this as an indication: The second largest library of popular music in the world is the Grosvenor Library in B'ham. This summer Kuhn thumbed through 67,000 numbers. Of these he selected 850. He and the other four members of his orchestra copied them down by hand. That's what I mean when I say they can play any song you ask for. It's age doesn't matter. If it's available, they have it.

It is not too much to say that they receive more requests than any other orchestra. So great has been this vogue that now in the Lounge, guests are given printed lists of several hundred numbers, with full titles and the year they were composed. . . . You just indicate what you want, and you get it.

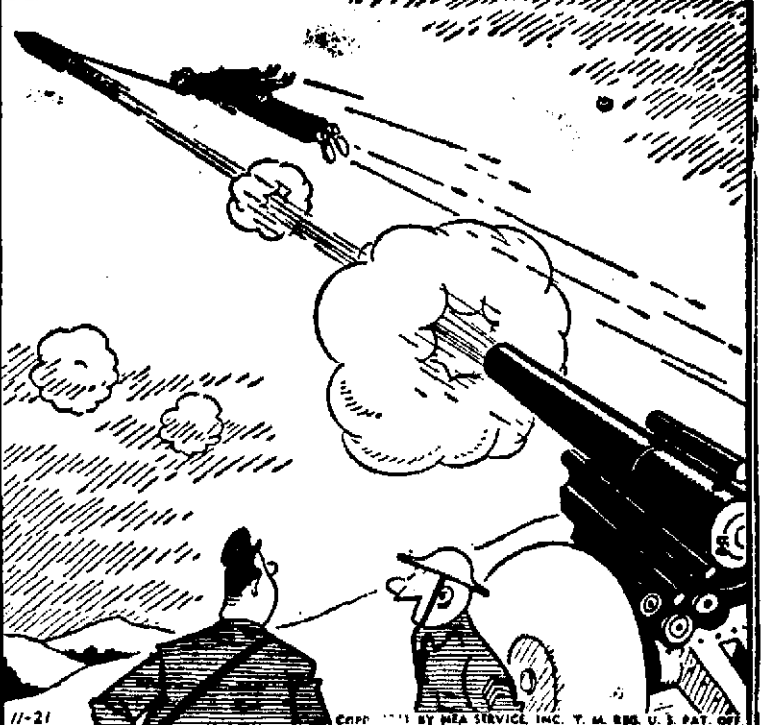

Dick himself lives on Fomander Walk, a small English settlement uptown composed of intimate family houses that face each other with a walk between, and surrounded by shrubs. He likes to read music as you read novels or newspapers. He likes to whistle. His first interest is his daughter, who is six and who has become quite a pianist. Not long ago he enjoyed the experience of hearing her sing over the air. It was, he said, a thrill, and he has a transcription of the event, which was taken as she sang. It will be something for her to look back on when she is 20.

Fumigates Smelly Literary Dumps

By JAMES E. HELBERT

When a person trots out in the public prints so that all may see his pet peeves, prejudices and perceptions, most of us dust him and then off with a "Oh, that's what he thinks," and go about our business of wising up whoever will lend an ear. That does not go for Van Wyck Brooks' "Opinions of Oliver Allston" (Dutton).

First, anything Brooks has to say on life and literature, politics and pleasure is important. His career as editor, critic and author landed him in the king's row of American letters long ago, and what he opines through his make-believe Oliver Allston marks this one of the most important literary events since the ink dried up in H. L. Mencken's prickly pen. Brooks takes some grand swipes at the writers who like the sound of short and gutter-sniping words almost as well as they do their own names. He chastises James Joyce, Ezra Pound, T. S. Eliot, Gertrude Stein (he calls her a "mystagogue") for leading post-World War writers out on a limb to sit like crows cawing their heads off at Dickens, Emerson, Tolstoy, Hugo, Mark Twain.

Brooks' Allston is schoolmasterish at times, but he hardly blames the young and tender intellectuals for following Joyce, Stein and Co into the woods. "The young minds that grew up in the shadow of the war were still more disillusioned, for the peace was a greater failure than the war. They felt they had been betrayed, and as evil triumphed, they came to feel that nothing else was real; and the writers grew still more cynical and hard-boiled."

Equally shrewd and ringing are his epigrammatic observations on democracy: "the very much in favor of it, artists who look always to Europe, style, human nature, nationalism, communism and socialism. For instance:

"A man who has the courage of his platitudes is always a successful man. The instructed man is ashamed to pronounce in an orphic manner what everybody knows, and from his science people think he is making fun of them. . . . I found that genius and virtue more often clothe themselves in a mouse-like garb than in the splendid feathers of macaws and peacocks. . . . It takes a great deal of energy to maintain an appearance of greatness, more than the really great are able to spare."

New Books In Artz Library

SECRET HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION—Carl Van Doren. An account of the conspiracies of Benedict Arnold and numerous others, drawn from the secret service papers of the British headquarters in North America.

SHAKE HANDS WITH THE DRAGON—Carl Glick. The psychology of the Chinese is interpreted by an American who has spent many years in the Chinatowns of New York and other cities. He explodes the general American belief in sinister activities, and finds that policemen everywhere consider Chinatown a "soft spot," juvenile delinquency, he discovered, is practically unknown. A sympathetic and readable account, the book gives Americans much information about a people that they little understand.

AMERICA'S LAST KING—Dr. Manfred S. Guttmacher. One of America's outstanding psychiatrists and chief medical officer of Supreme Bench of Baltimore, Dr. Guttmacher has written a study of George III and the recurrent periods of madness that overshadowed the same achievements of his long and eventful life.

WINDSWEEP—Mary Ellis Chase. The name of a house on a high promontory miles from villages and towns, furnishes the title for this novel of Maine.

SARATOGA TRUNK—Edna Ferber. From Creole New Orleans to glittering Saratoga, the novel gives a panorama of railroad empires and romance of the 1880's.

FISH FOR OTHER DAYS
Crab Bacon Rolls
1 cup steamed crab meat
1 egg
1/2 cup tomato juice
1 cup bread crumbs
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
1 teaspoon celery leaves, chopped
6 slices bacon
Bone and flake the crabmeat, then add all remaining ingredients except the bacon. Mix well together and roll into finger length. Wrap each roll with a strip of bacon; fasten with toothpicks. Place on the rack in broiling pan so that the fat will drain off. Broil, turning occasionally, so all sides will be browned and the bacon crisp. This makes 8 or 9 rolls, and will serve four.

The crabmeat can be replaced by lobster if desired.

Dogs wear their tails when they are happy; cats wear theirs when angry.

HAGERSTOWN BANK TO MAKE DISTRIBUTION

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 20 (AP)—Depositors and general creditors of the defunct Hagerstown Bank and Trust Company will receive their seventh and final payment December 4, leaving nothing of Washington County's first banking institution but a memory.

A final report and account of State Banking Commissioner John W. Downing, receiver, disclosed the December distribution will be $319,240.86, or 9.94 per cent. of the banks indebtedness. Depositors and other creditors will have received a total of 61.94 per cent. since the institution went into receivership in 1934.

The bank's history was closely related to the history of the county and city, its officers and directors numbering among the community's leading business and professional men. The old bank building was razed a few years ago to make way for new construction.

His Loving FATHER, MOTHER AND SISTER
In Memoriam
WARREN FELTZ—In loving remembrance of our son and brother, Marion W. Warrenfeltz, who died two years ago, November 20, 1939.

The face we loved is now laid low,
His loving voice is still
The hand so often clasped in ours
Lies now in death's cold chill.

We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.

A broken circle, a vacant chair;
We seem to miss you everywhere;
But in our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of you are ever near.

Peaceful by thy rest, dear one,
It is sweet to breathe thy name;
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.

Maryland Defeats W. And L. In Baltimore Stadium

MONT TALLIES SINGLE SCORE IN 3RD PERIOD

Generals Completely Outplayed In Annual Turkey-Day Clash

By EDWARD O. ETHEL
Baltimore, Nov. 26.—Captain Mearle Duvall of Maryland's Terrapins teamed up with Tommy Mont, sparkling sophomore half-back, to give Maryland a hard-fought, 6-0 victory over a dogged but hapless Washington and Lee eleven today before 6,000 Turkey-Day fans at Baltimore Stadium.

The lone score climaxed a 33-yard drive fired mid-way in the third period by a brilliant 22-yard punt return by Duvall aided by a hard block thrown by Mont. It was Mont who finally carried the ball five yards across the goal on a reverse from Duvall.

That was the story of the ball game. The closest the W. and L. Generals could come was to drive 50 yards to the 28 during the fourth quarter before the Terrapins buckled down and held.

Maryland held the upper hand throughout this 16th game of their series. The Terps made 12 first downs to five and gained 211 yards rushing to 45 for the Generals. I made the series record stand nine victories for Maryland, five for Washington and Lee and two ties.

Play in the opening period stayed near mid-field, usually in Washington and Lee territory. When the teams switched at the quarter, Lanky Preston Brown, General end, booted some long kicks with the strong Northwest wind sweeping down field but his team mates failed to take advantage of it.

After one exchange of punts in the third period, Duvall made his 22-yard run back. Then Maryland picked up a first down on the W. and L. 23 on a pass and two line bucks by Duvall.

Mont plunged twice for nine yards, Duvall hit the right side of his line for another first down on the six, picked up two more through the line, then handed the ball to Mont who speeded off left tackle for the score.

DUDLEY RUNS WILD AGAINST TARHEELS

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 26.—Wild Bill Dudley, the touchdown tabulator, today turned in one of the most amazing performances ever witnessed in Kenan Stadium, as he led Virginia to a crushing 28-7 victory over North Carolina in a tradition-packed Turkey Day game witnessed by 22,000 spectators.

The 19-year-old Bluefield, Va. bullet, winding up his college career, had perhaps his greatest day. He scored three touchdowns, passed for a fourth and kicked four extra points.

When Dudley left the game two minutes before the closing whistle, his team mates rushed off the bench and carried him triumphantly on their shoulders to the sidelines, while the spectators gave him a rising ovation.

The victory gave a considerable boost to Virginia bowl hopes. The Cavaliers have won eight games and lost one—two Yale by a 21-19 score.

Wild Bill entered today's game as the nation's second highest scorer with 112 points to his credit for the season. His 22 points against North Carolina boosted his total to 134.

To say that Dudley was the magnet of victory for the Virginia team would be putting it mildly. It is impossible to imagine what the Cavaliers would be like without Bill.

GARBAGE COLLECTORS RETURN TO WORK

Martinsburg, W. Va., Nov. 26.—Twenty city garbage collectors who struck Tuesday for higher wages returned to their jobs after the Martinsburg Council announced it was considering a plan to ask for bids on the removal of refuse.

The strike ended yesterday after Council said it would increase the collectors pay from 40 to 45 cents an hour, pointing out that under a contract plan their re-employment status would be uncertain.

In a statement the Council said the city was unable to grant a 10 cents per hour wage boost without cutting the force because the city collects the garbage under a fixed budget sum.

NAZI REQUEST REFUSED

Isabula, Nov. 26.—Turkey was reported authoritatively today to have rejected a German request for a Turkish-German press union to bind newspapers of the two countries together for consolidated control of news. The plan would have involved exchange of anti-German news and editorial from Turkish papers and denial of facilities to British and American news agencies.

V. M. I. SCORES WIN OVER V. P. I., 15-10

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 26.—Virginia Military Institute fused its all for one and one for all team play with flaming courage to outpoint a more powerful Virginia Tech football team today 15 to 10 before 20,000 in one of the best played games of their long Thanksgiving rivalry.

The Cadets, putting a patched-up lineup on the field at the neutral Lynchburg Stadium, and getting the maximum efficiency from its meagre reserves, fought ferociously to score first, come back to overcome Tech's half-time lead, and beat off the shock of Tech's last desperate charges.

Team work and fighting spirit were the keys to the Cadet victory, but even those elements couldn't have done the job without the deadly punting of Bosh Pritchard and Joe Muba's bruising performance in backing up the line.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED ON GAME VIOLATOR

New Market Man Was Hunting Without License On Farm Upon Which He Worked

The problem of who can hunt game without a license cropped up in Police Court Wednesday night before Magistrate Alton Y. Bennett but it didn't take long to get an answer.

The law reads, the magistrate said, that only the landowner and his children are eligible to hunt without a license and they must stay on their own property.

The question arose when Frederick T. Biser, New Market, was arraigned for hunting without a license after his arrest November 15 by Regional Game Warden Benjamin F. Phebus. Biser, it developed, worked on the farm where he was hunting but he didn't live there. A fine of $20 was suspended with a warning of "don't do it again" attached.

Seventeen motorists forfeited collateral for automobile law violations but only one local resident was among them. He was Charles R. Keeney, 204 South Carroll street, charged with exceeding 30 miles an hour in a restricted area. He forfeited $5 and costs.

CAR RECOVERED

Machine Of Brunswick Magistrate Taken Last Week
Magistrate Alfred R. Jones at Brunswick has his car back but it wouldn't be well for one engaged with auto theft to appear before him for trial.

Some one took his car from a parking place near the Courthouse last Friday. After reporting its loss, the Magistrate went without transportation for five days before Frederick City Police found it abandoned along a side street.

Residents in the vicinity of where the car was found said it had been parked there for several days.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The Wake Forest turned loose a devastating aerial attack behind a strong line to swamp the George Washington Colonials 42 to 0 before 6,000 Thanksgiving fans today.

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE TO BE ORGANIZED

At least four Frederick industries will be represented in the industrial basketball league being sponsored by the Y. M. C. A., Alvin G. Quinn, secretary of the Y, announced following a meeting Wednesday night.

Firms that have joined the league are the Frederick Iron and Steel Company, the Ox Fibre Brush Company, the Potomac Edison Company and the Grove Lime Company. There is a possibility, Mr. Quinn said, that the Union Manufacturing Company and Price Brothers also may join the league.

A second meeting is scheduled for the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday night at 7 o'clock when organization of the league will be effected, either with four or six teams.

The league is being formed, Mr. Quinn said, for employees of local firms who "still like to get a little exercise" but couldn't last long on the huge armory floor. All games of the league will be played in the Y. M. C. A. gym.

MIDDLETOWN BEATS FREDERICK TEAM

The Frederick and Middletown High School soccer eleven played out the Southern County schedule of the County Soccer League Wednesday afternoon with the Valleyites swamping the Orange and Black, 5-0, on the Valley pitch.

The win was Middletown's first of the season. Frederick didn't win a game.

Coach Bill Hauver's boys scored in the first period when Boyer made good on a penalty shot. Both squads battled on more or less even terms until the final period when the Valleyites tallied two field goals from scrimmage. The first score was made by Remsburg, the second counter was tied into the net by Ryman.

HOYAS DEFEAT MANHATTAN, 7-0

Dornfield And Blozis Lead Georgetown Eleven To Victory

New York, Nov. 26.—Half-back Frank Dornfield and Right Tackle Al Blozis between them gave a very fine football demonstration at the Polo Grounds today in leading the Georgetown Hoyas to a 7 to 0 victory over Manhattan College.

Dornfield took care of the passing and the kicking (getting off one incredible punt that rolled 83 yards), while Blozis, the huge shot-putter, bulwarked a bulky Georgetown line that threw Manhattan's ground attack for a net loss of five yards during the balmy afternoon. A crowd of 12,000 witnessed the fray.

Scored Early
The Hoyas scored the winning touchdown after only nine minutes of play. Dornfield took a jasper punt on the fly and winged his way back 23 yards to Manhattan's 45 line. He then shot a pass to Aloysius Jujack, who was downed on the 14. Near, he drifted back and pegged one far into the end zone where Lou Falcone took it on his finger-tips amid a cluster of Manhattan defenders. Boleslaus Balvins added the extra point with a placement kick and after that both sides were playing for Sweeney.

Manhattan fought back gamely, and once in the second quarter passed its way down to Georgetown's 13, but there was never any possibility of the Jaspers going through for a score—not with Blozis barring the gate. Frank Kisecker's fine punting was the best weapon the Jaspers had to offer.

Georgetown muffed two good scoring chances in the second half. Blozis once recovering a fumble on Manhattan's 13, and Jaworski falling on another loose ball on the 9.

Georgetown made eight first downs to Manhattan's three, but only two of them were manufactured in the second half.

TERP SOCCER TEAM SETS FINE RECORD

The University of Maryland, which hasn't had much to rave about in a football way this year, can change its affections to the soccer team which has just completed an unbeaten season and ranks as one of the outstanding eleven in the East according to Johnny Neun, soccer expert of the Evening Sun.

Tuesday's 5-0 defeat of Johns Hopkins University closed a season that saw the Terps win eight games and tie two on their ten-game schedule that brought them into competition with some of the East's crack teams. The Maryland eleven scored 34 goals to opponents' two, no mean feat in itself when considering the opposition.

Here are the teams the Terps defeated: University of Virginia, Duke, Gettysburg, University of Delaware, Franklin and Marshall, Loyola of Baltimore, Western Maryland, John Hopkins, Temple and Navy were tied.

Two Frederick County boys contributed to their team's success. They are Kenneth Port, Walkersville, at fullback and Doty Remsburg, Jefferson, substitute half-back. Both boys saw action in every game.

With their unbeaten season the Old Liners won the State championship as well as the championship of the Tri-State League, composed of teams from Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania.

PLAY TO TIE

Westminster, Md., Nov. 26.—An extra period failed to break a 3-3 deadlock yesterday between soccer teams of Western Maryland and Wheaton College, after the Green Terrors came from behind to knot the score with a goal in the fourth quarter.

Synden, of Wheaton, tallied all three of his team's goals in the second period, and Tarbuton, Shockley and Hyson, of Western Maryland, scored for the Terrors, two goals coming in the third period.

FRANK WALKER DIES OF SHORT ILLNESS

Baltimore, Nov. 26.—Frank Walker, 59, who trained the race horses of William L. Brann, master of Glade Valley Farms, died unexpectedly Wednesday at Union Memorial Hospital.

Walker was admitted to the hospital Saturday for treatment for a heart ailment, but his condition had not been considered critical.

A veteran horseman, Walker operated a stable of his own for years.

Walker and his wife came here from Narragansett six weeks ago. Mrs. Walker said burial would be in Baltimore following funeral services Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Brann, attending the funeral of a friend in New York, were notified of Walker's death and said they would return for the services.

Walker was a native of Texas and was in the hotel business in California before reaching into racing in 1923.

Winners Stand Off Second Half Charge With Kadets In Park

Smashing across for two touchdowns in the second period, Porter's Redskins hung doggedly onto their lead through the second half and managed to escape with a 14-7 decision over H. P. Shipley's Kadets, out-weighted but not outfought, in Frederick's Turkey Day football piece de resistance in Baker Park. Between four and five hundred fans saw the contest.

Throughout the entire first half the Redskins had matters pretty much their own way and from all appearances the game was ready at any time to turn into a rout. But the second half was another story. The Kadets were on the offensive and it appeared they might surge from behind to win.

Retain Title
The Redskins, by virtue of their victory, retained their city championship which they gained last year. Earlier this season the champs had drubbed the Kadets, 19-0, to gain the first leg on the two-out-of-three series for the city title.

Besides holding onto their local laurels the Redskins also strengthened their grip on second place in the Inter-City League which they reached on Sunday when the Kadets were massacred by the Key Jewellers of Hagerstown.

Played as a benefit game for Hal Moser, Kadet player who broke his ankle two weeks ago against the Brunswick Railroaders, receipts from the game were turned over to him to defray hospital expenses. He received approximately $30.

The Redskins began the scoring shortly after the second quarter got underway when Best bucked through the center of the line on his third try from the seven. "Sadie" Kemp was sent in to kick the point in a trick play but Best ran the ball across while the Kadets were swarming after Kemp.

Harne Goes Over
When the Redskins took over again during the same quarter Whitmore, on successive plays carried his team to the two-yard line where Joe Harne drove across for the second touchdown. Kemp kicked the point.

The Kadets' first scoring opportunity came at the end of the second half. In fact, the whistle blew with the Kadets on the Redskins two yard line and four downs to go. Raymond Ford who, by the way, did a whale of a kicking job for the Kadets, kicked to Gardner who fumbled on his own 15. The Kadets recovered and Ford passed to Kennedy who was tackled on the two as the half ended.

As the second half began "Bud" Kennedy, beyond a doubt the star of the game, on a sparkling run through a broken field, ran a kick back 55 yards before he was tackled on the 12 by Delphy. Three line plays netted no gain but a pass from Ford to "Brick" Kennedy put the ball on the seven where the "Skins took over and kicked on the first play.

With the Kadets in possession again a pass from "Bud" Kennedy to Hubbert put the ball on the Redskins' six-yard line. A three-yard loss, a yard gain and a fumble on fourth down which the Redskins recovered, ended the threat. The Redskins kicked.

On the next play "Bud" Kennedy passed to Hubbert to put the Kadets deep in Redskins territory and Dick finally ran off tackle to score from the six. Moberly kicked the extra point.

Penalty Kills Play
Later in the final period the Kadets picked up two first downs on two successive runs. Dick picked up 12 yards and "Bud" Kennedy followed with ten. Then a long pass from "Bud" to "Brick" Kennedy was completed with the latter crossing the goal line but a backfield in motion penalty against the Kadets nullified the score and brought the ball back.

The game ended with the Kadets frantically trying to score with passes and the Redskins just as frantically battling them down. Four Kadet passes were intercepted in the last few minutes of play.

Fairest Way To Finance Defense, Next To Taxation, Is By Sale Of Bonds

By ROGER W. BABSON

New York, Nov. 20.—While listening to many recent conversations, I have come to believe that too many individuals are today decidedly talking out of order. There is a good deal of "gossip" going the rounds about unemployment, defense bonds, inflation, further devaluation of the dollar, the plight of the small businessman, the size and servicing of the national debt, etc., which has no factual basis. Unconsciously, a good deal of harm may be done if such talk continues and particularly so if it is further falsely embellished in the retelling. I, therefore, should like to clear up a few misunderstandings about at least one of these matters.

Defense Bonds

I have heard the fear expressed that Washington might in some way freeze the resale of these bonds or freeze their ultimate payment in advance of their respective due dates. This argument is usually prefaced by the statement that the very fact of these bonds being now non-negotiable and of no value as collateral for bank loans is the handwriting on the wall. Hence, an inkling as to what purchasers may ultimately expect. This is all nonsense.

The act creating these bonds certainly provided the public with a safe investment medium. The Defense Bonds were made non-negotiable because our Government wanted U. S. investors to own at least one security which they could not hock. It is essential that in order to forestall the evil effects of inflation that these bonds not be used as "currency". I may add that it is a very sound way. Otherwise, the printing of bonds may be like printing paper money.

Liberty Bonds vs Defense Bonds

The Liberty Bonds which financed our preparation and conduct of World War I differed from the current Defense Bonds in one major respect, namely, they were negotiable. Furthermore, people were urged to borrow to buy Liberty Bonds. This was a mistake which the present Administration does not want to see made again. It also wants the buyers to be sure to have some cash which may be needed after the War is over.

The only proper way to pay for any investment is by cash. I have always emphasized the evils of buying upon margin or with borrowed money. If individuals borrow to buy Defense Bonds, or if they could borrow on them, just so much money or credit would be available for luxury and other consumer goods. The demand for such goods has already been speeded up by larger payrolls and higher wages. In view of the rising living costs, it would be far better to now store up a portion of these wages and salaries in Defense Bonds.

Morgenthau Is O. K.

I should hate to have Secretary Morgenthau's job. His is the difficult task of continually raising new money for defense needs and of taking care of maturing issues of bonds and notes. He has no control over the vast sums voted for defense and ordinary fiscal purposes. Furthermore, he has no voice as to how this money shall be spent. The Congress and the President simply dump into his lap the problem of

White House Gets Its Christmas Tree

Sign of dwindling of days to Christmas is this scene on the White House lawn, where workmen are placing big Yuletide evergreen. President Roosevelt plans to deliver his annual Christmas Eve address from the White House south portico, facing the tree.

more, he has no voice as to how this money shall be spent. The Congress and the President simply dump into his lap the problem of the public responsiveness to his ideas. Hence, he had the first drastic proposal for excess profits taxes, later adopted in a modified way. Then came the idea to limit corporation profits to 6%. This fell by the wayside. Following was the plan for tax anticipatory notes, which was enacted. Then came a proposition to pay two years' taxes in one. The latest scheme is a check-off system on salaries and wages. This would be O. K. if—like the excess tax on profits—it applies only to wage increases since January 1, 1941. To tax, by the same rate, those who have had no pay increases would be very unjust.

What About Defense Bonds?

The fairest means of financing defense expenditure, next to an equitable system of taxation, is through the sale, by the Treasury Department, of Defense Bonds. Here is a medium through which everyone, in comfortable or modest circumstances, can directly contribute their services in these critical times. In buying these bonds, we are protecting all that our American way of living stands for. So far, Mr. Morgenthau has been able to dispose of the Defense Bonds without resorting to the high-pressure sales methods used at the time of World War I. It is hoped to raise $2,500,000,000 annually through the sale of Defense Bonds and Stamps compared with about $13,000,000,000 from taxes. Tax money, when paid, is gone forever. Money paid for Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps will certainly be returned with accumulated interest.

Sales have not been all they should be in recent months. I certainly hope they may increase. Bonds are sold in three series and are subject to Federal Taxation. Series E replaces the old "baby bonds." A $100 face value Series E bond costs $75 and matures in 10 years, yielding 2.80% to maturity. These are designed for the small investor. A $100 face value Series F bond costs $74 and matures in 12 years, yielding 2.53% to maturity. These are for large investors, trustees, associations, and pension funds. Series G bonds are sold at par, mature in 12 years, with interest of 2 1/2% paid by Treasury check. Redemption values decrease gradually during the first 4-5 years held and then gradually rise to par except in case of death when they can be collected in full.

Postal Savings Stamps may be bought by anyone for 10, 25, and 50 cents or for $1 and $5 and later exchanged for bonds. They are fine for children. After watching securities for over forty years, I have finally found an issue I can wholeheartedly recommend. By buying these bonds you safeguard principal and get a better-than-savings-bank interest return. In addition, you emphasize your faith in our American System of Government. It's still the best on earth!

FARM BUREAU HEAD ASKS PRICE CONTROL

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 20 (AP).—The president of the American Farm Bureau Federation today called for legislation controlling industrial wages and for sharply increased taxes to curb inflation and to finance two-thirds of the national defense cost out of current revenues.

President Edward A. O'Neal of Florence, Ala., declared in a speech prepared for delivery to the convention of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation that "if wages are left out of the price control bill, I fear it will be impossible to prevent disastrous inflation."

He added that farmers on their part were willing to submit to control of prices of the commodities they produced, "so long as the parity position of the farmer is protected."

Calling heavy taxation "one of the most effective means of preventing inflation," O'Neal reiterated the Farm Bureau recommendation that two-thirds of defense costs be paid out of current revenues.

O'Neal said "the time for high taxes is when the national income is high, not when it shrinks, as it will, at the end of the present emergency."

CHIMNEY FIRE

A chimney fire in the home of Roscoe DeGrange, Athletic Park, early Thursday afternoon was extinguished by the United Fire Company. The blaze, which was believed to have been caused by an overheated furnace, was checked with booster pumps before any damage resulted.

During 1940, 6,700,000 persons were kept employed, directly or indirectly, in motor transport.

CITY BUDGET IS BEING PREPARED

No Indication Yet Whether Tax Rate Will Be Reduced

Preliminary work on the Frederick city budget for the fiscal year beginning January 1 is now under way, but as yet there is no indication whether the tax rate will change, according to municipal officials.

Mayor Lloyd C. Culler reiterated his hope that the present $1.15 rate can be reduced but indicated that the study of next year's items has not progressed to the point where any statement can be made. As a matter of fact, the work thus far has been largely of a departmental nature and has not been taken up by the budget committee of the Mayor and Aldermen.

The Mayor's hope of reducing the tax rate is understood to lie largely with the parking meters, which, it is estimated will bring something like $20,000 a year into the city coffers. The coming year will be the first during which the majority of the meters will belong outright to the city. Final payment was made during this Fall to the company from which they were purchased.

To offset the increased revenue will be the cost of reorganizing the Police Department, which included raises in pay, addition of several officers and new equipment. Parking meter revenue will more than take care of this cost, however, it is believed.

May Improve Water Facilities
It is possible that the water department will come in for an increased expenditure next year to improve the facilities at Linganore filtration plant so that a large volume of water can be made available from this source. This expenditure will be more than $20,000, if made, it is understood, and the drought of the current year has led to the prospect of some action being taken.

City Register Louis E. Eichelberger has been engaged for some time with preliminary work incident to the next levy. It is necessary for the city register's office to check assessment changes, etc., in the County Commissioners' office since the city adopts the state and county assessment schedule. The budget must be in shape and the levy at least tentatively fixed some time in advance of the first of the year if the register is to have tax bills ready by that time.

NATIONAL BEER PREMIUM pale dry
In all the wide world today there is no finer beer than NATIONAL PREMIUM—the great pale dry beer—brewed in Baltimore, Maryland.
Here, where generations of suave-living people have spent their pleasant moments in planning good food and the accompanying fine drinks to go with it, NATIONAL PREMIUM was first brewed in America, in keeping with an ancient recipe from an old, old brewery in an obscure corner of Central Europe.
Now this gorgeous beer is famous from Coast to Coast. In the fine clubs and hotels and restaurants and taverns from the Atlantic to the Pacific, NATIONAL PREMIUM stands out as a truly grand beer. Well brewed, brilliant, flavorful, agreeable and pure, it brings to the lover of fine living a glass which overflows with rare delight.

MISSTABLER IS BRIDE OF VICTOR S. PALMER

A wedding of interest both in Frederick and throughout the county was the marriage at the Urbana Methodist church of Miss Helen H. Tabler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George William Tabler, of Urbana, and Victor S. Palmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grayson E. Palmer, West Third street, which took place at four o'clock on Thanksgiving afternoon.

The chancel of the church was decorated with bronze chrysanthemums, palms and tapers and the ceremony was performed by the bride's uncle, Rev. M. T. Tabler, of Laurel, formerly of Walkersville, and Rev. J. W. Briscoe, her pastor. The bride wore a leaf-green costume suit with luggage tan accessories and a corsage of bronze button chrysanthemums and red roses. She was given in marriage by her uncle, M. L. Summers, of Frederick. Miss Katharine R. Bussard, College Place, was the maid of honor, wearing a milk-trimmed costume suit in wood-brown with brown accessories and gardenias.

The best man was the bridegroom's brother, Edgar B. Palmer, of Thurmont and ushers were C. Leese Bussard and Herman Hauver, Frederick.

Miss Ruth Trout, this city, sang "Because," d'Hardelot, and "I Love You Truly." Bond, accompanied on the violin by James Eichen, of Frederick, who also played several violin selections. Miss Juanita Dudderar, of near Frederick, played the piano accompaniment. The traditional wedding marches by Wagner and Mendelssohn were used as the processional and recessional.

The wedding was followed by a reception at "Hampton Farms," home of the bride, which was attended by relatives and close friends. The mothers of both the bride and bridegroom wore gowns of teal blue with corsages of roses.

The couple left afterward for a short motor trip and later this month will be at home at 116 West Sixteenth street, Norfolk, Va., where they have taken an apartment. Mr. Palmer is employed as observer with the United States Weather Bureau in Norfolk.

Mrs. Palmer is a graduate of the Frederick Academy of the Visitation and of Blue Ridge College. Mr. Palmer is a graduate of Frederick High School and was graduated from Western Maryland College in 1934. He was employed with the Soil Conservation Service in Frederick, Middletown and Hagerstown before taking his present position last July.

HISTORY OF INDIANS GIVEN AT MEETING OF LOCAL GROUP

An exceedingly interesting talk on the American Indian, illustrated with relics of Indians formerly in Frederick County, the United States and many other parts of the world, was given by John J. Snyder, local authority on the subject, Tuesday night at an enthusiastic meeting of the Frederick County Historical Society. Dr. Joseph H. Apple, president, presided.

Indian data here is meagre, there being no mounds, no camps, sites, nor graves, although there are hills, well timbered, and valleys and streams, said Mr. Snyder, who mentioned the Monocacy River as the dividing line between the Iroquois tribe on one side and the Algonquins on the other. He related how the Maryland General Assembly in 1698 passed a measure against the Shawnees and Tuscaroras on Indian Creek, and spoke of the Hughes Ford plantation, the General Roger Nelson plantation (now known as Camp Kanawha), near Point of Rocks, the Col. William Crum plantation, near Reich's Ford, and the Olescin plantation, frequented long ago by the Red Man.

Camp Sites Found

Cartier led the Shawnees into Frederick County and was the first white man to settle along the mouth of the Monocacy. The Indian occupancy of Frederick County ended in 1792. After Braddock's defeat, the Indians came toward Frederick; among the Iroquois was a Tuscarora camp in this county in 1698, the campsite of which was found by Mr. Snyder in 1917. In 1910, it was excavated by Ralston Goldsborough, and many relics taken from it. The most extensive camp site in this county, said Mr. Snyder, was the Algonquin, at Worman's Mill. In 1936, however, fine relics were found at Biggs Ford. He declared that he did not believe that the Indians were lazy; that there were numerous Indian trails in this county, and they generally follow the water. Reference was made to Mr. Goldsborough's map of the sites.

RED CROSS IS SEEKING FUNDS

Organization Is In Need Of More And Larger Assistance, Chairman Says

The importance of larger and more contributions to the Red Cross was emphasized Wednesday by A. Hart Etchison, chairman of the Roll Call drive, as workers began their second week's campaign.

Frederick county has been assigned its largest quota in its history and as a result more members must be enrolled this year in order to attain the record $28,200. While the reports received at the Roll Call headquarters equal to those of former years, Mr. Etchison indicated that there may be special contributions beyond the regular membership required to make the drive a real success.

The scope of the work of the American Red Cross has been extended to a point this year where unprecedented support is needed. Work in the service branches as well as rescue work overseas imposes a drain upon the resources of the organization which must be resupplied through the cooperation and generosity of the public.

Contributions reported at headquarters Tuesday were in the amount of $70.40, raising the total received to date to $1,143.57.

Additional partial returns reported were:

Miss Adele Cronise, solicitor for the north side of Rockwell Terrace from Dulany street to College avenue, enrolled seven members for a total of $7.

Mrs. Carol L. Etchison, solicitor for North College Parkway and Lindbergh avenue, enrolled 16 members for a total of $16.

Miss Margaret Kent, solicitor at the Maryland School for the Deaf, enrolled 28 members for a total of $28.

Mrs. Theron D. Green, solicitor for Fleming avenue, enrolled 18 members for a total of $18.

Mrs. Alvey Renn, solicitor for West Thirteenth and West Fourteenth streets, enrolled seven members for a total of $7.

Mrs. Marion K. Green, solicitor for the north side of East Third street from North Market street to Middle Alley, enrolled 25 members for a total of $25.

Mrs. Robert Crothers, solicitor for Record street, enrolled 21 members for a total of $21.

Mrs. Alden Fisher, solicitor for East Third street from Middle alley to Chapel alley and the south side of East Third street from Middle alley to North Market street, enrolled nine members for a total of $9.

Mrs. R. Ames Hendrickson enrolled 11 members at Parkway school for a total of $11. Five members at Washington street school for a total of $5 and received from Elm street school contributions in the amount of $15.

Mrs. Carl D. Sunday enrolled five additional members for a total of $6.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 20 (AP)—Sympathy walkouts in the wake of the captive mine strike were reported to have made at least 30,000 commercial miners idle and the union predicted West Virginia would supply no coal to the nation after this week.

Unofficial checks indicated that around 100 commercial operations had closed, with vice-president William Blizard of United Mine Workers District 17 reporting 30 per cent closure in his district.

Some of the largest producing areas in southern West Virginia were affected, including Fayette and Raleigh counties, where around 18,000 men were reported idle. McDowell, Kanawha, Greenbrier and Boone counties, all in the heart of the coal fields, listed varying numbers of operations as closed.

TRUCK DRIVER IS ACQUITTED

Cleveland Man Is Found Not Guilty Of Failure To Place Flares

Magistrate Manuel M. Weinberg Wednesday acquitted Dave James Rose, Cleveland, O. truck driver on a criminal charge growing out of an accident near Middletown June 2 in which John McMullen, Cumberland publisher, and his wife were injured.

Rose, who was not present but was represented by counsel since he had testified when the hearing started some time ago, was found not guilty of failure to place flares along the road after his truck had become disabled. The magistrate said it was apparent that the flares had been placed although most witnesses said they were not burning at the time of the crash.

Mr. and Mrs. McMullen testified Wednesday that the tractor trailer truck parked near the center of the highway suddenly loomed up ahead of them about a mile west of Middletown as the publisher switched on his brightest headlights. He said he had no opportunity to avoid a crash with the parked vehicle. He was confined to the Frederick City Hospital for some time after the accident.

There said there were no rear lights on the truck. Several other witnesses said there were small lights of some description which were not visible to any great extent. One witness said there was a lantern hanging at one end of the truck.

William McSherry, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. McMullen, contended that it was the duty of the truck driver to keep the flares burning continuously under the statute. William M. Storm represented the driver. Sgt. W. K. May made the investigation.

BRITISH TAKE ACTION

London, Nov. 20 (P)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons today that Britain already was taking military and naval action against Finland, Rumania and Hungary, which have sent their troops to assist Germany's invasion of Russia.

His statement, in reply to a question whether Britain considered the three as enemies because of their participation in the fight against Russia was military and naval action is, of course taking place against these countries.

Eden declined to elaborate and said he could give no information as to why Britain had not declared war on the three countries.

It would not be in the public interest for me to add anything at all to what I have said, he asserted.

SWINGS ARE NARROW

New York, Nov. 20 (P)—Stock market price swings Wednesday largely duplicated the narrow and indecisive moves of the previous session as speculative contingents kept a wary eye on the troubled labor horizon. Able to rise above the general averages were a handful of industrials which lacked on gains or fractions to a point or so. In most other departments there was a tendency to settle in a slightly lower territory near the four-hour hour. Dealings were comparatively small despite sizable transactions in various box price issues.

Over 150 Women Of Church Hear Address By Mrs. Mengel

The Women's Guild of the Evangelical and Reformed denomination was the subject of an earnest address by Mrs. Jesse M. Mengel, Reading, Pa., first vice-president, before over 150 women of the Evangelical and Reformed church Tuesday evening at six o'clock in the church parlors. Those present were guests of the church, and the dinner was planned by the local Women's Guild.

Mrs. Mengel recently attended the National Guild meeting at Louisville, Ky., when the constitution for the new organization was adopted following reorganization of the denomination several years ago. She explained two plans of organization of local branches of the Guild, one plan being for all the women's organizations of the individual churches to merge into departments of the individual church guild, the other plan for them to keep their individual identities but to become members of the larger body.

Certain mechanics are necessary for the work, but let us not lose sight of the spirit or purpose of the organization to establish Christ's kingdom on earth, declared Mrs. Mengel. Those present were told not to dread big problems ahead, for when the time comes, you will have help from a Divine Master whose power is unlimited. They were advised to adopt whichever plan seemed best adapted to the individual church.

Likened to Pioneers. Said Mrs. Mengel, You, women are pioneers, not thinking just of the immediate problems of today but to enlarged service and enlarged responsibility. You are not removed from the early pioneers who came to build a Christian church, she continued, referring to the early settlers of Maryland, which and in the women's organizations of the church and its leadership, and would not fail. Only with patience can the Christian hope be fulfilled.

In their "zeal that the new organization should be a success, it will be easy to be critical and impatient in its early days," but differences will gradually disappear, and it will become a "great unifying force and strength" and, as St. Paul's early efforts for the church, "a labor of love," said the speaker. "How do we acquire so many prejudices, racial and class, as we grow older?" she asked. "The world today is starving for love, a love that does not seek itself. Women of the church are about to enter a 'labor of love.' We so love that we give and serve."

Mrs. Mengel described the national Women's Guild convention attended by nearly 1,200 women at Louisville, the signing of a budget and colors, blue and gold. She also answered questions regarding organization of local guilds and explained that whichever of the two plans is chosen, there will be departments such as thanksgiving, Christian life, and stewardship, which, in turn, may divide into circles.

The speaker, who was heard by a number of local women last summer at the Reformed missionary conference at Hood College, was introduced by Miss Katharine E. Dutrow, president of the local guild formed in 1936. The latter group will meet Sunday night, November 30 at 7 o'clock to complete its organization and to decide which type of plan to effect.

Singing of "America," by those present and invocation by Rev. Dr. Henry L. G. Kieffer opened the program, and there was singing led by Mrs. William Brish, Mrs. Maud W. Dittmar acting as pianist. Women of the church prepared and served the dinner.

I. E. S. LAMPS

Even as expert naval architects have designed warships to defend our lives so the lighting experts of the Illuminating Engineering Society have designed I.E.S. Lamps to protect our eyes. The I.E.S. Tag on any lamp is your guarantee that it has been so designed and built.

I.E.S. Lamp design centers around the glare eliminating diffusion bowl. Used with the proper wattage bulb this bowl transmits scientifically correct quality, eye-protecting light. Important too is the shade, broad at bottom to increase the area of useable light and lined in white to reflect and intensify the light thrown on the working surface. Indicative of I.E.S. quality and standards is the fact that every I.E.S. Lamp must comply with 54 specifications governing mechanical and electrical construction as well as lighting qualities.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Gibraltar Guards Vital Gate to Mediterranean

A narrow rock which juts two and one-half miles into the sea forms one of Britain's vital defense links against the axis. Mighty Gibraltar, guarding the western gateway to the Mediterranean, subjects all traffic to British approval. No ship could safely run its gantlet of guns. A British Crown Colony since 1713, this imposing fortress, affectionately known as "The Rock," has a population of more than 20,000 people. Gibraltar issues its own philatelic paper. The 1938 stamp, above, one of the Coronation series, honors King George VI and pictures the Rock from the north side. Britain has fortified Gibraltar steadily since Sir George Rooke seized it as a crown colony in 1704 during the war of Spanish Succession. Natural caves deep in the rocks and innumerable tunnels store food, ammunition and serve as air-raid shelters. Cannon command the straits in all directions from a series of levels. Breakwaters and moles enclose the harbor as a naval base. Miles of jetties, docks and naval facilities are tempting targets for airplanes and land-based artillery in Morocco and Algeria, Spain, four and a half miles across the Bay of Gibraltar.

SERIAL STORY

LADY BY REQUEST

BY HELEN R. WOODWARD

THE STORY: It did not matter that pretty, red-haired Diana Tucker had let her anger flare, told lawyer Richard Thorpe to go to the devil, stormed from his office except what must have been some, famous Stephen Curt, writer and commentator conferring with Thorpe at the time, have thought of her outburst? Anyway, it was Diana's last day with the firm. Having resisted Thorpe's overtures and wounded his vanity, she had already been given notice, so she wondered who could do other work in the exciting city, or if she would have to return to her farm home.

CHAPTER II

DIANA walked quickly from the room, breathing rapidly. Her pulses were pounding, her head reeling madly. She had seen the consternation on Thorpe's face change to blazing rage, and was conscious of a wild, delighted feeling of retaliation justly meted out.

She had not seen Stephen Curt's twinkling eyes, nor heard his chuckle of delighted laughter, but when she had slammed the door, Curt said dryly:

"Looks like the little lady's one up on you, Richard, my boy!"

Thorpe was striding angrily about, trying to control his fury. There were reasons why he did not want to display his ruthlessness before Stephen. His wife, Evelyn, thought a great deal of Curt and it would not do at all to have his ill temper known outside the office. For many reasons he wanted Evelyn to continue to believe that he was all sweetness and light.

Already he was sorry for his outburst, but that confounded Tucker girl had always irritated him beyond belief. Who in hell did she think she was, talking to him like that? And Curt, with his keen insight, seemed to be enjoying the situation out of all proportion to its importance. Didn't know that Curt had never really liked him.

"The girl's impossible. We've fired her. This is her last day," he muttered angrily. "I should think so, if you're in the habit of yelling at the poor child like that," Curt grinned slyly. "Give the kid credit. She seemed to have heard of me, and when you mentioned my name, she was a little impressed. You messed up my moment of tribute."

Thorpe smiled unwillingly. "I'm sorry as the devil this happened. Steve. But the girl has been getting on my nerves for weeks."

She's probably refused your advances. Stephen was thinking. She's probably taken no trouble to conceal the fact that she thinks you're a heel. She wouldn't bow down at your shrine, thank God! So you're getting rid of her. Well—it'll be somebody else's gain.

Anyone could tell that there was a rare girl. Stephen had known it somehow even when he glimpsed her in the outer office. It was her spirit, her fire. Curt liked women whose temperature could be perched above a luke-warm level. He'd like to see that girl gay and laughing. She'd be like a child when she was happy.

He couldn't remember when anyone, man or woman, had so interested him. Not Stephen Curt, the commentator. Many people drew his avid attention. But Stephen Curt, the man. Once more he chuckled inwardly.

"WAIT a minute. I'll call Miss Montgomery and we'll continue," Thorpe was saying, anxious to restore a semblance of order.

But Stephen Curt was gathering up his papers, stuffing them untidily into his brief case, apparently in a great hurry.

"Sorry—haven't time now. Anyway, you've got all the dope.

Landis, of Hagerstown, visited Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Eldridge.

—Mr. and Mrs. Archie Kline, of Waynesboro, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Beecher and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Beecher, of Ringgold, were recent visitors of R. W. Pryor and family.

—Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kline are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a daughter.

—Mr. and Mrs. David Blickenstaff, Miss Goldie Blickenstaff, Paul Blickenstaff, Mrs. Sarah P. C. Stottlemeyer, C. Clyde Stottlemeyer, of Hagerstown, spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Fern Stottlemeyer and family.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Blicken-

Once again inside the warm building, Diana had to wait for an elevator, and when one finally disgorged its passengers into the lobby she found herself face to face with Stephen Curt. He picked her out unerringly and placed his hand on her arm. His blue eyes were friendly.

Fix up the contract and then I'll sign it. Let us know when it's ready. No special hurry, of course."

He took his hat and overcoat, let Thorpe help him into them, and was soon out of the private office. But outside, as his blue gaze swept the big room eagerly, he saw only Miss Montgomery. Her mouth still open in astonishment at something that must have just happened.

Miss Montgomery had been waiting in the outer office to hand Diana a white envelope.

"Mr. Durbin asked me to give you this," she said, smiling in the manner of a cat that has just swallowed a canary. Miss Montgomery knew quite well that the pretty nest into which she had fallen had been made possible because Diana had not been considered competent in the position. She felt she could afford to be generous and added, "We do hope you will soon be happy in some new location."

"Thank you. And you may go to the devil with the rest of them!" Diana said clearly, snatching the envelope with trembling fingers.

Miss Montgomery stood speechless by the desk, her usually quick wit having completely failed her, and Diana, glancing back at her, laughed aloud. It was a childish gesture, but one destined to relieve somewhat the tension of her taut nerves.

BUT as she waited for the elevator, Diana's face burned with shame at what she had done, and especially because Stephen Curt had witnessed her outburst.

By the time she reached the street her exultant hysteria had passed and she began to feel more and more ashamed of herself. Exulting like that! And before Stephen Curt, too! What must he think of her? Perhaps she had better go back and apologize.

Before she reached the corner the conviction had grown on her that that was the thing to do. It staff, of Pittsburgh, are visiting relatives here.

—Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. R. W. Pryor and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kline, were: Mrs. Iva Wise and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Burt and son, Jay, Mrs. Glenn Swain, all of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Archie Kline and daughter, of Waynesboro, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kline and children.

PUMP CAPACITY AND PRESSURE ARE INCREASED

Valve Adjustments At Linganore Plant Speed Up Water Flow

Valve adjustments have been made at the Linganore filtration plant which officials believe may increase the pumping capacity nearly a million gallons a day under certain conditions, it was learned Wednesday.

The change has become apparent in some city households, where a sudden rush of water into the pipes indicated increased pressure. The gauge in City Hall showed 70 pounds pressure at mid-morning, as compared to some 40 or 50 pounds during the summer and fall. Tuesday the pressure held consistently around 70 pounds and at one time mounted to 80, it was stated.

The adjustments, it was said, will permit a maximum flow of around 3,000,000 gallons a day into the mains from Linganore. The city, at present is not consuming nearly this much. The gallonage that could be pumped into the mains depends upon the clarity of the water, it was said. If the water becomes cloudy or muddy, it would be necessary to reduce the flow.

Using 2,000,000 Gallons Daily The city at present is using nearly 2,000,000 gallons a day from Linganore. Consumption figures disclosed Wednesday that the municipality is using about 2,200,000 gallons daily. Water Superintendent William J. Davis, who with City Engineer W. Raymond Waller supervised the Linganore adjustments, said the flow into the mains from Fishing Creek reservoir has tapered off to about 300,000 gallons daily.

The only other source of supply is Linganore. Mayor Lloyd C. Culler, informed of the adjustments that have been made at the filtration plant, indicated that he felt the increased volume from Linganore would be a great help in conserving what little is left of the mountain supply. There is only a small pool of water in the 77,000-gallon capacity Fishing Creek reservoir.

Although officials did not commit themselves, it appeared that the prospects of increased water volume from Linganore would defer, and possibly eliminate altogether, the necessity of pumping water into the city mains from two auxiliary sources—Montevue springs and the Grove Lime Company quarry east of Frederick. These sources are ready but it has not been necessary to use them.

Coagulation Basin Cleaned The big coagulation basin at the filtration plant was thoroughly cleaned over the weekend, Mayor Culler said. This basin, which holds 189,000 gallons, is the place where water from Linganore creek deposits its muddy sediment before entering the filters and being chlorinated.

The basin is 12 feet deep and it is understood there was a large quantity of mud in it. The independent and United Fire engines were pressed into service to hose out the basin pumping water from the creek. Then it was thoroughly scrubbed.

TO GIVE DEGREE

New Market Grange Ceremonies Scheduled Tonight

The New Market degree team will administer the fifth degree of the Grange at a meeting of the Pomona Grange tonight in the New Market Grange Hall. Several County applicants are expected to be present for the ceremonies.

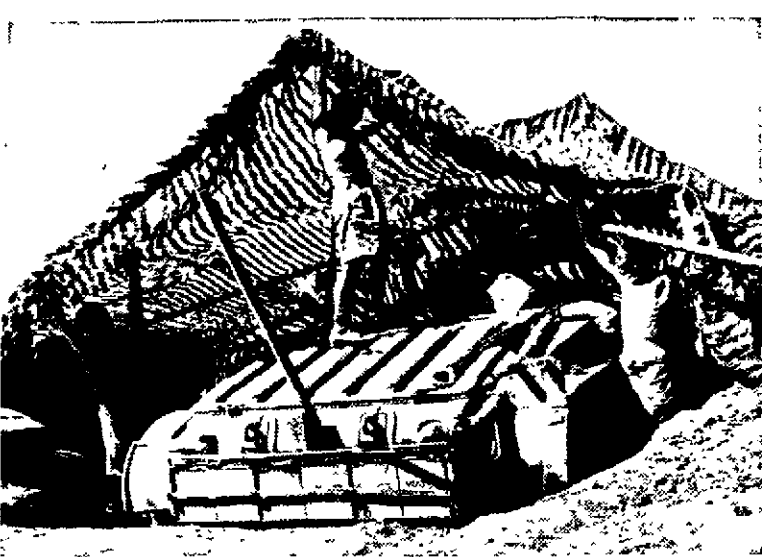

The county representative in the State-wide Grange program contest will also be selected when the Middewy, Leishman and Balleger Granges in a preliminary contest at the Warner will compete with other Western Maryland teams during the next two weeks for the right to represent Western Maryland in the finals which will be held at the State meeting here December 2, 3 and 4.

City of Frederick's R. Shoe-maker will act as toastmaster at the annual Pomona Grange banquet at the Hotel Frederick next Wednesday. The program committee, headed by Cecil K. Holter, announced today. More than 200 Grange members and guests are expected to attend the dinner.

Noisy Way To Hide Tank

JAPAN WARNED

London, Nov. 20. P.—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said in the House of Commons Wednesday that any attack by Japan on the Burma road would create a grave situation.

The Burma road, twisting through the mountains from British Burma through Yunnan province to Chungking, is one of the principal lines of supply for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese forces.

Recurrent reports of the massing of Japanese troops in northern

French-Indo China have stirred wide conjecture that Japan may be planning to invade Yunnan province in an effort to cut the road. An authoritative source said earlier that Japanese naval activities also "suggests increased pressure on Thailand, wedged between Indo-China and Burma."

PUBLIC SCHOOL EXPENDITURES CONTROLLED BY LEGISLATURE

The Frederick County Taxpayers' Association has appointed a committee to study the Frederick County budget with a view to effecting economies. Few persons outside of County offices are familiar with sources of revenue and expenditures in the past. Officials have always had the advantage of knowing more about the County fiscal needs than those who have sought to cut expenditures and the tax rate. In conjunction with the study of the budget being made by the Taxpayers' Association, the Post has prepared a series of impartial articles dealing with the County budget items one by one.

Following is the eighth in this series. Expenditures for public schools in Frederick County are controlled largely by State laws and appropriations. The latter are made biennially by the Maryland Legislature.

Any material relief from the mounting costs of the public school system must necessarily come from the State Legislature, dominantly controlled for years by the Governor. Hence, any effective relief would have to be dictated by the State's executive and made general for the entire State.

The County Commissioners each year appropriate a single sum to cover all local costs of the school system. They arrive at this figure after receiving from the County School Board a proposed budget.

A study of school appropriations and expenditures is at once confusing because fiscal years of the County government and school system do not coincide. The current school fiscal year started last August 1. The present County fiscal year started last January 1. As a result of the difference in the fiscal years, appropriation and audit figures are difficult to tie together.

Appropriated $396,500 This Year For 1941, the County Commissioners appropriated $396,500. The School Board had asked for $411,600. In 1940 the appropriation was $376,500. The request appropriation was $394,000. The School Board claims a $32,600 deficiency for the two year period, a part of which was made-up by excess State appropriations, not to mention a $30,000 item sought for construction of an addition to the Thurmont High School building.

The appropriations to the School Board are to cover actual operation of the schools. Debt payments, directly chargeable to the school system, are not included. They are covered in the regular appropriation for debt service because they are

Comparative Figures

Some idea of the debt load on the County may be gleaned from the following figures. For the current year appropriations were made to retire $77,000 in school bonds and to pay $47,237.50 interest. As of January 1, next, the County's school debt will be $842,000.

Here is a new picture of the 1941 County budget:

Total appropriations:	$878,061.48
School Board:	$396,500.00
School bonds, interest:	124,237.50
Total for schools:	520,737.50
For all other items:	357,323.98

Recent audits show for the school year ending July 31, 1938: $653,049.15 in receipts, $237,653.15 coming from State and Federal funds, and $368,352.42 from the County; for the year ending July 31, 1939: $1,091,884.69 in receipts, $245,026.71 from State and Federal funds, $347,448.48 from County funds, $136,250 from PWA, and $299,487.55 from sale of bonds; for the year ending July 31, 1940: $1,039,348.31 total receipts, $233,680.25 from State and Federal funds, $386,278.65 from County funds, $108,000 from PWA.

Just for comparison, in 1916 total receipts were $208,872.26 with $76,114.63 from State funds, and $120,048.37 from County funds.

COLLIDES WITH TRAIN The car of Lee Roy Castle, this city was damaged about 11 o'clock Wednesday night when the machine and a Pennsylvania Railroad freight train collided on East street between Fifth and Sixth streets. Castle reportedly was making a U-turn around the end of the freight train. Castle had turned South on East street from East Sixth street while the shifting freight was at a standstill. The train had started to move Southward when the car was struck. Castle and a passenger were unhurt.
